BOYER DENIES TAKING BLUE LAW PAYOFFS

Kept $3,750 At Home, Produces It Today

By BOB REINHARDT and PHIL WECK
Courier-Times Staff Writers

Grim, his usual jaunty smile completely missing, Bucks County Commissioner Edward B. Boyer took to the witness stand in his own defense this morning in his trial on charges of bribery, extortion and conspiracy.

He denied completely that the money he received from Charles B. Meyers had anything to do with enforcement of the Sunday Blue Laws. Meyers, a suspended deputy U.S. marshal, is co-defendant on conspiracy charges alone.

Boyer, charged with demanding and receiving $8,550 from three Lower Bucks discount markets for immunity from arrest on Sunday sales, said the amount he received was $7,800.

The money was all "political contributions," Boyer said, and he listed several Republican organizations and individuals he said he gave some of the money to.

Good Evening!

Mr. Kennedy's first State of the Union message.

His gloomy appraisal of the global, economic, military, educational, housing situations perhaps needed to persuade the country that we can't do business at the same old stand without serious attention to critical problems.

We wouldn't like to think, however, that the President is building up a series of black synthetic crises as part of an administration push for "emergency" spending just for the sake of backing up a lot of campaign promises.

The government simply can't spend us out of a few of these problems. Intelligent, sensible, understanding leadership and approach to solving them is the way.

Eleven straight days of sub-freezing skies and today apparently is the twelfth.

Well, here we are — January 30, and Groundhog Day on Thursday. Isn't it in February that the maple sap starts flowing as the eternal sign that March winds and April showers mean you start planting the onions and lettuce?

Anyhow, a good winter for the farmers. By the time the snow's gone the oats should be ready for harvest.

Also a dandy time to begin giving yourself a headache with the income tax returns.

That April 15 deadline not nearly so far away as you think.

Often the gal who thinks she's a siren is only a false alarm.

An Ohio man broke a plate glass window to steal a watch and a judge gave him seven years of bad luck.

It's hard to give away a million dollars, says a banker. Harder to get it in the first place.

Take it easy with your driving

Meyers' Job To Retain Job After Trial

Charles B. Meyers, suspended deputy U.S. Marshal, will have a difficult time getting his Federal job back even if he should be acquitted of the charges of conspiracy to bribery and extortion in the trial at which he is co-defendant with County Commissioner Edward B. Boyer.

Meyers' boss, William A. O'Brien, U.S. Marshal for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, with headquarters in Philadelphia revealed this Friday.

A deputy marshal, as a Federal employee, is prohibited from political activity "of any kind," Marshal O'Brien said.

Attended GOP Meetings
Meyers has testified that he collected $430 "political contributions" for 19 successive weeks. Friday he also said that he had attended several Bristol Township Republican Club meetings although he did not address the meetings.

O'Brien said yesterday that Meyers was suspended from his deputy's job upon his arrest, Sept. 19.

A full report on the situation was forwarded to the attorney general's office in Washington, O'Brien said.

Faces Hearing

"Undoubtedly the FBI is investigating," he stated. "They always do." At least one FBI agent has been seen in the courtroom.

Should Meyers wish to be reinstated upon an acquittal, he would have to face some kind of civil days.

Below Freezing 13 Days

Is Winter Over? In 30s Tomorrow

The weatherman is letting up today, for the first time in nearly two weeks, and offers the hopeful possibility that the temperature will go above the freezing point tomorrow.

The thermometer has been below 32 degrees, way below, mostly, for 13 days. Tomorrow, according to George Whiteley, U.S. weather forecaster in Trenton, it should go up to "the low 30s."

The skies will remain fair for the rest of today, tonight and tomorrow, Whiteley says, with a low tonight of from 15 to 20 degrees. Today's high is expected to be in the 25-30 degree range.

The overnight low was reached at 7 o'clock this morning, when the mercury touched 14 degrees.

Whiteley looks forward to no precipitation for the next few days.

Quadros Raps Pirate Ship 'Friend' Story

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — President-elect Janio Quadros refused today to say whether he would grant sanctuary to the captive Portuguese liner Santa Maria and its rebel band when he takes office Tuesday.

A statement on the doorstep of his home early this morning threw doubt on whether rebel leader Henrique Galvao would be able to release the captive passengers aboard the liner at a Brazilian port.

UPI Correspondent Gary Neeleman met Quadros as the president-elect was returning from the theater and showed him a story in a Rio newspaper, Diario de Noticias, in which he was quoted as calling Galvao "an old friend" and saying he would give the ship and the rebels "all guarantees."

Quadros grew apparently indignant as he read the story and then he snapped: "When I have something to say about the Santa Maria I will not say it in this manner. I have nothing else to say right now."

Then he went inside. The Diario de Noticias reporter who had interviewed Quadros said the president-elect had made his statement in an ironical tone of voice and this may have caused a misunderstanding.

Quadros is known for tossing off half-joking quips that sometimes lead to confusion.

Tax Guides Available At Courier-Times Office

Additional copies of the two government booklets, "Tax Guide for Small Business" and "Your Federal Income Tax," are again available at the Courier-Times on Route 13, Levittown.

The booklets, both 1961 editions of the latest Federal tax information, are on sale for 40 cents.

Individuals and small businesses will find the 144-page booklets of great help.

They can be picked up at the main entrance to the building Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Fire Destroys Newtown's 'The Hanging Lamp'

The Hanging Lamp, an antique shop at 140 North State St., Newtown, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning.

The one-story building owned by Mr. and Mrs. Duane Stump on a lot adjacent to their home, was heated with a kerosene burning oil stove.

Mrs. Stump said almost all the antiques were destroyed including several pieces of pewter, about 34 pieces of furniture, lamp shades and lamps.

The Stumps said they plan to rebuild their shop and reopen in six weeks.

The blaze was fought by members of the Newtown Fire Company.

CBS Cancels Show On Soviet Espionage

NEW YORK (UPI) — A television drama depicting Soviet espionage activities in the United States has been cancelled by the Columbia Broadcasting System, a spokesman for the show's sponsor said today.

Max Banzhaf, vice president of advertising and public relations for the Armstrong Cork Co., said the hour-long live drama was to have been presented Wednesday.

Highlights Of Address By President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Kennedy's State of the Union address:

Overall picture: "I speak today in an hour of national peril and national opportunity. Before my term has ended, we shall have to test anew whether a nation organized and governed such as ours can endure."

Economy: It is "in trouble." There has been seven months of recession. There are unanimous predictions of continued slack, and only slightly reduced unemployment, through 1962.

Staggering Problems

Foreign affairs: Domestic problems which confront us around the world. The trials his administration and the nation face are staggering, and growing more difficult daily.

Defense: This is difficult to assess because coherent military strategy has been lacking. Immediate action is being taken to speed up missile programs and the airlift, and the defense secretary will reappraise the entire defense structure.

Classrooms Inadequate

Education: Classrooms are inadequate, many teachers not qualified. Colleges are ill prepared to turn out sufficient scientists, engineers and teachers.

Science, space: The administration plans to explore "all possible areas of cooperation" with Russia and other countries on weather prediction, communications satellites and probes to Venus and Mars.

Gold Balance

Gold: He will act in several ways to bring U.S. payments into better balance, but will not do so by devaluing the dollar or interfering with trade policies.

Latin America: He recommends an immediate food-for-peace mission to these countries, along with sweeping long-term measures for economic development and building stronger alliances.

Improve Compensation

Domestic aid: He will ask for legislation to improve unemployment compensation, help promote jobs and provide more food to the needy.

Housing: Before the year is out, a new program will be needed to help 25 million Americans get out of substandard homes.

$700 In Jewelry Stolen From L. Makefield Home

Housebreakers burglarized a Lower Makefield Township home of $700 in jewelry last night, according to Lower Makefield police.

Police reported that two men's watches and cufflinks were stolen from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rosenthal, 1102 Yardley Road, while the couple was away.

The burglary occurred sometime before 9 p.m., police said. A side window was broken to gain entry, it was reported.

About Exercise — And The Heart

A Briton says Americans "never use their muscles if they can help it, once they can afford an automobile or an apartment with an elevator."

The Briton is a physician — and he's 72 years old.

Dr. William Brady, Courier-Times columnist, discusses the views of Sir Heneage Orillie in an article entitled "For Lack Of Exercise," today on Page 6.

Commissioner Boyer Denies Taking Blue Law Payoffs

at the credibility of Boyer's testimony, at whether he hadn't discussed the Blue Law and the contributions in a manner that would link them and at why he kept the money in his desk without letting anyone know about it.

Press Release

In connection with this, Beckert read from the press release Boyer had issued two weeks after his arrest.

"Did you say in this release," Beckert asked, "that my bank account and my savings account are both open for inspection. In addition, anyone who is curious enough may also dig up the lawn around my home if he feels that I have buried anything in an old cigar box or a can?"

A heated exchange followed between Beckert and Boyer.

Boyer said, "Yes, this is in reference to the allusions you are making."

Beckert: Q: What allusions?

Boyer: A: The insinuations you are making and have made.

Q: What did you mean by this reference in the press release?

A: I think you can read it as well as I can.

Q: What did you mean by it?

A: It is humor. I realize it may be hard for you to understand, but it is humor.

Q: Do you think humor belonged in reply to the charges brought against you?

A: The charges were so incredible that they called for humor.

It Was Humor

Q: You wanted people to think you had none of the money?

A: No. It was humor.

Q: You knew there was no money in an old cigar box buried in your yard?

A: Yes.

Q: You knew the money was in your desk drawer. Why didn't you put that in your release?

A: If you were my attorney, would you advise me to say something like that?

Early last year, Boyer testified, he visited Beckert at his home to discuss the Blue Law situation.

Three discount markets, Butch's in Trevese, and the Bargain City stores on Route 413 and in Fairless Hills, felt they were being discriminated against, since markets in adjoining counties were open on Sundays, Boyer testified.

Assistant D.A.

Beckert asked him what other matter they had discussed that day. It was, Boyer testified, the pending appointment of an assistant district attorney.

Said Boyer, "I told you that members of the county executive committee were disturbed because they heard you were going to appoint Walsh. They said it could hurt you politically. They wanted you to appoint Jack Dean."

Quakertown Attorney

Walsh is Arthur Walsh, a Quakertown attorney, and Dean is John M. Dean III, of Middletown Township, who, incidentally, is one of Meyers' two attorneys in the trial.

Walsh was appointed.

Boyer's testimony was given in a clear and emphatic voice. However, his ever-present smile was gone today and his face was grim. Boyer denied categorically the previous testimony that at a meeting with Elmer "Butch" Bauso, proprietor of a discount market in Trevese, he had promised to notify Bauso in advance if county officials planned to make any Sunday raids.

Denies Many Points

In fact, under questioning by his defense attorney, J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Boyer denied many of the points concerning that meeting which Bauso had testified to as the prosecution's main witness last week.

Once again, when Boyer took the stand as the trial in Doylestown went into its second week, the courtroom was crowded, with several persons standing.

A tipstaff stood at the door keeping out all except those who had business in the court. Today the row reserved for the press was full with correspondents from half-a-dozen newspapers and two wire services.

Spent $1,400

Boyer testified that the payments from Meyers, which he said were for political purposes only, started on May 15 and ended in September. All told, he said, he received $7,800 from Meyers and put it in a desk drawer in his home, 31 Falcon Road, Forthlythia Gate, Levittown.

Boyer said he gave and spent a total of $1,400 for the unsuccessful campaign to have Assemblyman Alan D. Williams Jr. elected chairman of the Pennsylvania Young Republicans last summer.

This included $900 in cash, he said, spending $194.43 for whiskey and gin and another $300 for campaign expenses at the Young Republicans convention in Pittsburgh last August. Boyer identified receipts from the State Liquor Store in Doylestown dated

EDWARD B. BOYER

Aug. 2 as being for the liquor purchase.

The county commissioner said $400 of the "Political contributions" he received was turned over to the Bucks County Republican committee. Denying testimony by county GOP Treasurer C. Herbert Haldeman that the $400 was for part of an assessment on his county job, Boyer said he told Republican chairman Ziegler the money was to use "anywhere you want."

New Voting District

Boyer said he gave Bensalem Township Republican party workers John Cunnane and Bill Rogers $200 to use for campaign work in a new voting district in that township.

He said he gave Veitch, county register of wills and assistant GOP chairman for Lower Bucks, $100 for the unsuccessful campaign of John H. Thomas, of Levittown, for state assemblyman and gave Veitch $15-25 to buy a barrel of beer for the postal workers' picnic.

Boyer also listed $150, the money given him personally by Bauso, which he gave in Bauso's name to the Bucks County GOP Century Club. He said he gave $100 to George J. Ault, Falls Township GOP chairman and chief county registration clerk, for the campaign to make Williams the state Young Republican chairman.

Dressed Neatly

Boyer was dressed neatly in a dark gray suit, with a watch in the breast pocket of his suit jacket, a chain leading from his lapel buttonhole to the watch. He graced occasionally as he talked and he answered every question in a loud clear voice with emphasis.

"That is correct," he said in answer to Kilcoyne's early questions about his age, 41, his children, two, and his duties as county commissioner. Then, when the questioning became sharper and concerned points he was denying, he said, "absolutely not," in response, again and again.

Bauso was in the front row of spectators. He leaned forward, a half-smile on his face, as Boyer testified about their meeting, watching and listening intently. Beside Bauso was State Police Sgt. Keith Dane, who has been with him at every courtroom session so far, although no official will admit that Bauso has been assigned a bodyguard.

The Meeting

About the meeting, Boyer said that Bauso suggested it, not Meyers, as Bauso has said.

Met At Market

Boyer said they met first at Bauso's market, not in the diner. He admitted that references to the matter of political contributions had been disposed of and Bauso had given him $150. And, he said, he told Bauso he had "absolutely nothing" to do with enforcing the laws.

He also said he mentioned the Century Club, a Republican organization of $100 contributors, to Bauso. Bauso testified last week that he knew nothing about that organization until he received a membership card some time later.

Boyer was the third witness today.

The first was Russell W. Thompson, 427 Magnolia Drive, Levittown, former president of Local 4889, United Steel Workers of America, at the Fairless Works, and former Bristol Township Democratic Organization treasurer and chairman.

Thompson Testifies

Thompson testified that when the Democrats were in control in Bristol Township in 1955, 1956 and 1957, he collected political contributions from the Bristol Farmers

Family Faces Eviction For Breaking Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The family of a nine-year-old boy who broke the white boycott at integrated McDonogh 19 School today faced eviction from its crowded, four-room apartment.

John Thompson, 33-year-old ex-GI from Alabama said that because his son, Gregory, cracked in the white boycott Friday, today his landlady had ordered them from their apartment.

Market, predecessor of the Bargain City Store on Route 413 that contributed $150 weekly of the $450 Boyer received from three such markets.

The money, Thompson said, went directly to political candidates, not to the county Democratic Organization. Boyer testified that the "political contributions" with which he is charged with extortion and bribery did not all go directly to the county GOP organization but some went to local Republican organizations.

Another Witness

The second witness was Meyer Kirkoff, a Philadelphia attorney and partner of Bauso. Kirkoff said Bauso never had discussed the Blue Law with him, contradicting testimony from Butch that he had talked with his lawyer partners about the Blue Laws.

Under cross-examination by District Attorney Paul R. Beckert, Kirkoff revealed that his partnership was in owning only the land on which the market stands, not in operating the market.

Meyers and his two attorneys, Stanley M. Greenberg and John W. Dean III, took part in several whispered conferences with Kilcoyne, but otherwise had no hand in today's proceedings.

Ignores Ex-Boss

The last picture the jurors had when court recessed Friday night, the one freshest in their minds over the weekend, was of a dejected, unhappy State Rep. Alan D. Williams leaving the witness stand and passing Beckert, his former boss, without looking at him.

Williams had testified that he received $900 in cash from Boyer to finance his campaign for president of the Pennsylvania Young Republicans. He did not know where the money came from, he said, other than that he believed it was a "political contribution." The $900 had been properly recorded on the list of contributors by the Bucks County Young Republicans, deposited in the bank and spent at a convention of the Young Republicans in Pittsburgh he said.

Named By Beckert

He also testified that besides being state representative, he is a former assistant district attorney, appointed to that post by Beckert himself. His voice was buoyant and frank and he answered each question at length.

Then came the cross-examination. Beckert asked him again about the money and the fact that it was listed. He produced a list and he asked Williams if this was the one. It was, Williams said. Williams read down the first page of the contribution list in his hands. He found the name "Boyer" on the list. Beckert asked him to read the amount of money listed beside the name as a contribution. "$100," Williams replied. The District Attorney then asked the state legislator to check the other pages of the list for more references to the defendant.

In what was one of the trial's most dramatic moments thus far, it was revealed that no other contributions from Boyer were listed.

The entire trial has been a kaleidoscope of dramatic personal and political relations such as this one.

Political Weight

Boyer, the main defendant, was perhaps the Republican most responsible for Beckert's election to the district attorney's post since he swung his political weight behind Beckert's primary campaign in 1957.

Beckert's opponent in that primary campaign was John J. Bodley, who subsequently was elected county commissioner, to sit with Boyer—and who has been mentioned in this trial as the man to bring information about the alleged payoffs to the attention of the county detectives.

Furthermore, when Beckert first hung out his shingle in Bucks County, he was associated in law practice for three years with the white-thatched, veteran Kilcoyne, who is Boyer's defense attorney.

Know Each Other

Many of the principals on the opposing sides have known each other intimately. In fact, during his cross-examination of Meyers, Beckert frequently called him "Charlie."

Meyers in turn called Beckert "Paul" several times until his attorney, Greenberg, objected because of a possible confusion with another Paul, Shuster, manager of the Bargain City Route 413 market.

At one point, when he placed Boyer's home in the wrong section of Levittown, Meyers said to the district attorney, "I got it confused with your house."

"Might Have Been"

Beckert, who presented his prosecution witnesses in a relatively undramatic manner, was relentless in his cross-examination Friday. He left Williams obviously unhappy and he pounded and pounded at Meyers until the suspended deputy marshal stated twice that relief from the Sunday Blue Laws "might have been" in the minds of several persons when the political contributions were discussed and were made.

Kennedy Asks Congress For Swift Action

on the globe at any moment's notice."

He ordered the Polaris submarine construction program stepped up at once by using unobligated shipbuilding funds now instead of waiting for the next fiscal year which does not begin until July 1. He said this would advance the Polaris program by nine months.

The President also directed prompt acceleration of the entire U.S. missile program. Pending completion of the McNamara study, he said there would have to be better organization and decision-making to cut down on wasteful duplication and time-lag "that have handicapped the whole family of missiles."

Kennedy tackled international economic problems from two directions, foreign aid and the dollar gap. He wanted congressional authority to overhaul the entire foreign aid program with more flexibility for "short run emergencies" and the right to make commitments for long-term development projects overseas.

He also said greater emphasis should be given to the role of recipient nations to assure greater social justice, broader distribution of the American aid and on the local level, better public administration and tax systems. This added up to belief that governments on the receiving end should not regard American aid as a one-way street.

On the dollar gap involving the present imbalance of international payments, Kennedy said there was cause for concern, but not despair. Since 1953, he said, nearly $5 billion had flowed overseas from U.S. gold reserves and the prospect for 1961 was another deficit in international payments of about $2 billion.

He pointed out, however, that total American gold stocks available now amount to about $22 billion "and I now pledge that their full strength stands behind the value of the dollar for use if needed."

The President said there was no need to increase the gold price from $35 an ounce, to impose exchange controls or to fall back on restrictive trade policies.

Stores Extend Dollar Days

The Levittown Shop-A-Rama for the first time in its history is extending a sale beyond the period originally advertised.

The Shop-A-Rama, which has been holding Dollar Days since last Thursday, will continue the sale which was to have ended Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. because of the tremendous volume of business and hundreds of requests by shoppers, according to Horace McNabb, account executive for the Levittown Businessmen's Association.

McNabb said the response to the sale was "overwhelming" as a result of being publicized through the Courier-Times supplement and the outstanding merchandising by the LBA member stores. He said, because of this, most of the member stores are repeating their ads.

Group Only Charged For Dinners Served

A story in Friday's Courier-Times which referred to the Bucks County Police Association meeting at the Village Inn in Southampton, said that the association had to pay for 42 dinner reservations although only 26 members showed up because of the snowstorm.

Actually, the association paid only for the number of dinners which were served.

The Courier-Times regrets any inconvenience or embarrassment caused by the error.

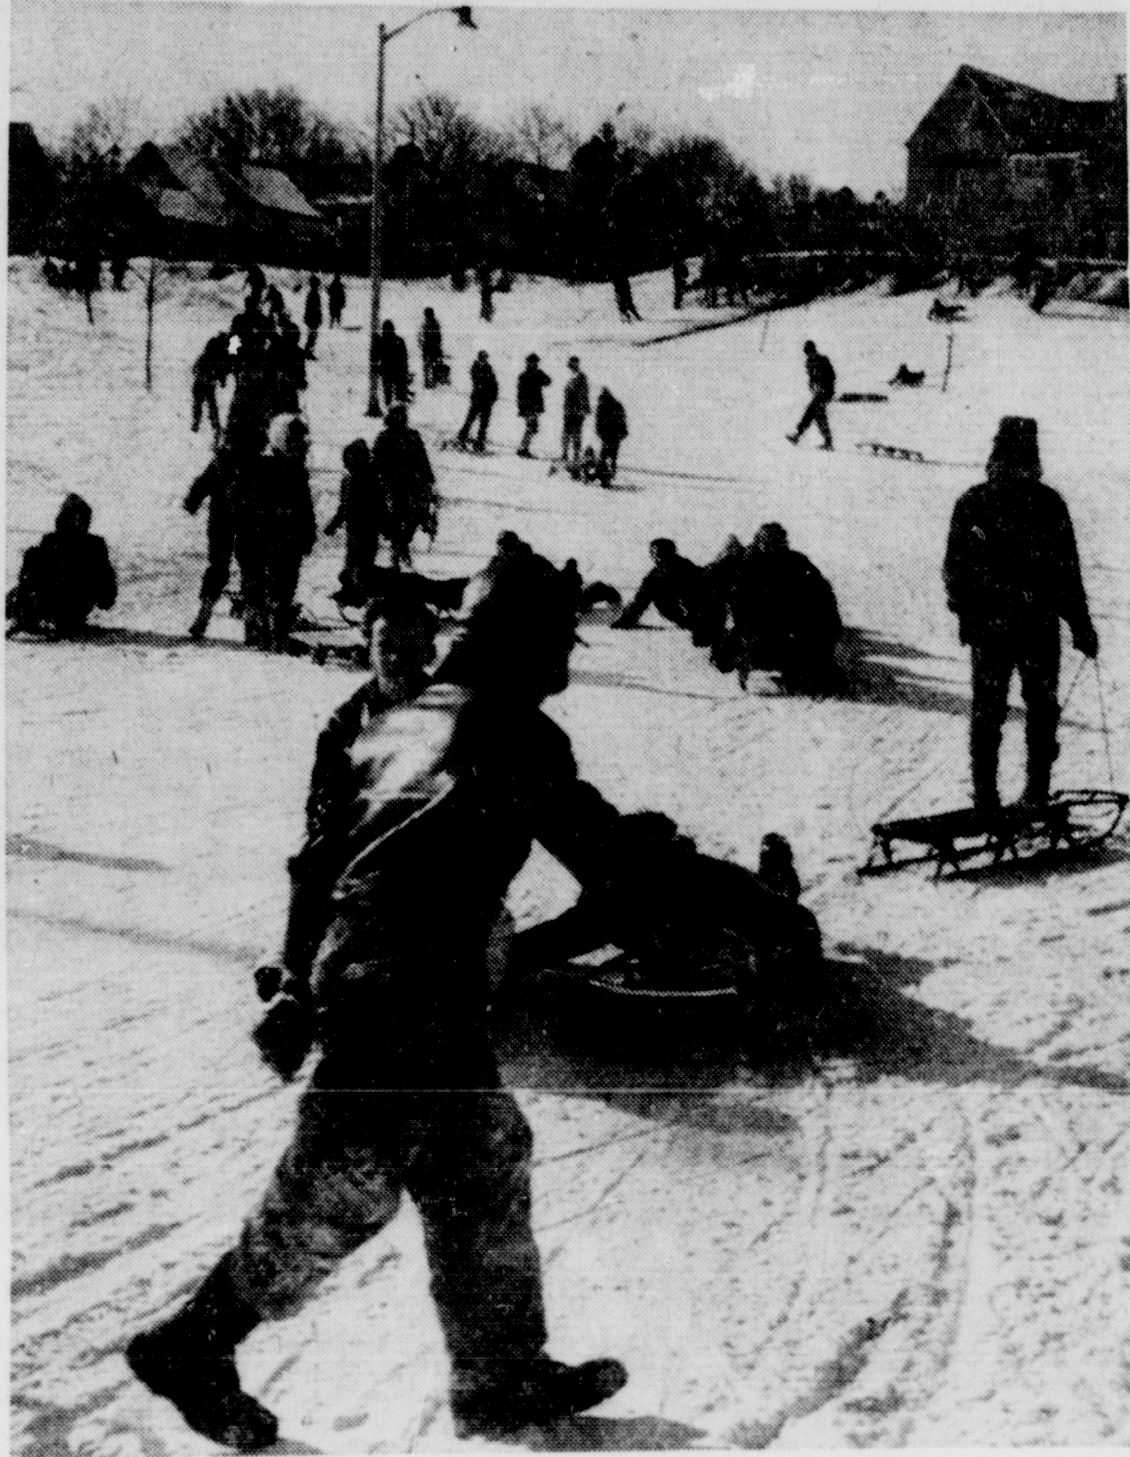

Mothers' March Confirmed

The Bucks County Mothers' March for the New March of Dimes will go on as scheduled tomorrow evening, according to Mrs. C. B. Harrold, county Mothers' March chairman.

Mrs. Harrold pointed out that weather conditions may make it impossible for volunteer mothers to reach all homes in their areas during their fund drive tomorrow evening. She requests, therefore, that the mothers continue their collection efforts for one or two additional evenings if necessary.

The Mothers' March tomorrow is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

snow flurries were predicted over the higher ridges, but the weather was to be mostly fair with gradual moderation of temperatures.

Hazardous Driving

There was a slight deviation from the weather pattern in Westmoreland County where an inch of snow covered the roads and state police warned of hazardous driving conditions.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was partly snow-covered from Gateway on the Ohio line to the Bedford Interchange but was dry the rest of the way.

The high readings today were to be similar to the maximums yesterday, ranging from the low 20s over the northern-Tier counties to the upper 20s and perhaps low 30s over the lower Susquehanna Valley zones.

Cold was forecast again tonight with the mercury ranging from near the zero mark over the mountain valleys to the upper teens over the southeastern portion of the state. Further moderation in temperatures slated for Tuesday as the high pressure system reaches a position to move warmer gulf air northward.

Temperatures tomorrow were expected to surge above the freezing mark over the southern half of the state which will be the first time this has happened since the middle of January.

Quick Action Seen For Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack, Mass., predicts one of the first bills Congress passes this year will be aid to depressed areas.

McCormack said Sunday night he saw no need for the House Banking and Currency Committee to hold extensive hearings on the measure. He said he hoped the group would send the bill to the floor as quickly as possible.

Charges Crusade

Veitch Says Beckert 'Using' Boyer Case

William J. Veitch, Bucks County register of wills and Assistant GOP chairman, today assailed District Attorney Paul Beckert for "using the current Blue Law Case to discredit my position as a Republican leader and to launch his campaign for reelection as a crusading D. A."

Veitch charged that "Beckert's alleged remarks that he was determined to involve the leaders of the Republican Party and naming me as a principal figure was a malicious attack on my character and integrity. If he said what he was reported as saying, then I accuse him of deliberately creating an absolutely unwarranted implication of myself in this situation."

Levittown Man, Son Injured In Accident

A Levittowner and his son were injured yesterday afternoon in a two-car collision at Red Rose Way and Red Ridge Road, Levittown.

Walter Taylor, 32, 9 Quaker Hill Turn, and his ten-year-old son, Walter Scott, were treated at Lower Bucks County Hospital and released after Taylor's car and an auto driven by Charles Haines, Jr., 33, 10 Cotton Road, Levittown, collided.

Taylor and his son both suffered contusions. The accident was investigated by Middletown Township patrolman Gerald Snyder.

Also Admits Looting Bair High School

A temporary Bristol resident was caught red-handed in the W. T. Grant Store, Country Club Shopping Center, Route 1, by Middletown Township police early this morning and charged with burglary.

The man, who gave the name of Peter Cook, 29, of New York City, was found near the cash register of the store when Patrolmen William Dietrich and George Haller checked after finding a rear door forced open. Cook offered no resistance, police said.

Medill Bair School

He was taken to the Middletown Township police headquarters where he admitted breaking into Medill Bair High School earlier in the night, it was reported.

Cook will be questioned by Falls Township police, who reported more than $100 had been taken from the high school assistant principal's office.

Cook was apprehended at 3:45 a.m. by the two officers who were making a routine check.

In addition to burglary, Cook is charged with possession of burglary tools and carrying a concealed deadly weapon. He had two knives on his person, police said.

Search Continues For Rare Blood

More than 300 Lower Bucks County residents responded to a Courier-Times story seeking persons with "AB negative" type blood for ten-year-old Mary Susan Jones, 27 Vineyard Road, Violetwood, Levittown. The type of blood required is a special kind of "AB negative" and the search continues with

Williams Challenges Gallagher

During the debate Thursday on Governor Lawrence's levy of two cents additional tax on gasoline, State Representative Alan Williams (R-Bucks) said he asked Representative James J. A. Gallagher (D-Bucks) to read into the records the names of the eight road projects for which Gallagher purported to have assurance from Governor Lawrence and Secretary of Highways Park H. Martin, and which were slated for 1961 construction.

"Gallagher refused to do so and admitted he had no written or oral agreement with either the Governor or Secretary Martin," Williams said. Gallagher almost took the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer any questions," Williams said.

Williams, in his floor debate, indicated the great need for road construction and maintenance in Bucks County, the fastest growing county in the Commonwealth. In turning thumbs down on the two-cent increase Williams accused Governor Lawrence of railroadizing this measure through the House in 48 hours without giving any facts to show how, where or when the new road funds would be spent.

"I will not vote for increased highway funds to support Lawrence's patronage army of political highway employees," Williams said. "We need a civil service program to bring our highway department operations up to Twentieth Century standards." "The boroughs and townships of Lower Bucks County will lose $49,572.42 under H. B. 92 for which

James Gallagher voted," Williams said. "I would like to know how Mr. Gallagher is going to explain to the supervisors, councilmen, commissioners and citizens of these districts, who have had their 20 per cent liquid fuel tax taken from them:

Tax Collector Gaston Dies In Langhorne

William J. Gaston, Langhorne tax collector since 1939, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 135 North Bellevue Ave., Langhorne. He was the husband of Tacy Sutton Gaston and was 67 years old.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Gaston was a member of the Langhorne Presbyterian Church, a charter member and past commander of the Jesse Soby Post 148, American Legion, Langhorne, and a life member of the Lang-home - Middletown Fire Company.

Surviving are his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Warner Blake, Langhorne; a brother, John, of Conshohocken; six sisters, Mrs. Anna Hargy, Mrs. Margaret Keers, Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholson, all of Brookline, Pa.; Mrs. Sara Darragh, Upper Darby; Mrs. Evelyn Crawford, San Francisco, Cal.; and Mrs. Ada Stinson, of Overbrook; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1 p.m. from the William W. Dunn Funeral Home, 378 South Bellevue Ave., Langhorne, with the Rev. John A. Harvey of the Langhorne Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia. Friends may call tomorrow evening.

'Mothers March On Polio' Scheduled Tomorrow Eve

Volunteer Canvassers Needed

The "Mothers March On Polio" will be conducted tomorrow night in Yardley and Lower Makefield under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Meiss, it has been announced.

The canvass of homes in Yardley and Lower Makefield is sponsored by the Yardley Civic Club for the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Meiss said there is a need for more canvassers to cover the large areas of the township and borough. Those interested are asked to call her at HY 3-2876. The drive will be held between 7 and 8 p.m., it was reported.

Residents wishing to contribute are requested to light their porch or doorway light.

Mrs. Harry Beitel is president of the sponsoring agency, the Yardley Civic Club.

Morrisville Youth Joins Hershey School 4-H Club

Roy Bilheimer, son of Mrs. F. E. Bilheimer, 1110 South Pennsylvania Avenue, Morrisville, is a member of the 4-H Club at the Milton Hershey School, Hershey, a privately endowed school that offers opportunities for boys who have lost one or both parents through death. Roy has been a member of the club for one year and is enrolled as a sophomore in the agriculture curriculum.

The objectives of the 4-H Club are to provide an opportunity for members to learn by doing, to acquire habits of healthful living, and to obtain information and direction in the intelligent use of leisure time.

Milton Hershey School was founded and endowed by Milton S. Hershey, the chocolate manufacturer. It is a non-sectarian school where nearly 1,200 boys live in family groups in the country and prepare for college and for careers in business and industry.

Tire Sales Rising
AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Domestic sales of passenger car tires for replacement purposes are expected to set a record of 72 million units in 1961 — topping the previous records of about 69 million units in 1960 and 68.7 million in 1959, J. W. Keener, president of B. F. Goodrich Co. said.

Jehovah's Witnesses Postpone Meeting

"The meetings normally held in the latter part of the week at the Morrisville congregation, Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses will be temporarily postponed this week end," George Dallison, presiding minister, reported today.

"Instead of attending the ministry school, service meeting and Watchtower study locally, the witnesses will be in attendance with twenty-two other congregations at

Morrisville Girl Selected For Award

Dee M. Nolan, a senior at Morrisville High School, has been named the school's 1961 Betty Crocker "Homemaker of Tomorrow." She received the highest score in a written examination in homemaking knowledge and attitudes.

She is a candidate for the state Homemaker of Tomorrow award which will be announced in March.

Miss Nolan will receive an award pin representing the slogan, "Home is Where the Heart Is."

The written examination is part of a $10,000 homemaking education program sponsored by General Mills. The first ranking girl in each state receives a $1,500 scholarship and the second ranking girl, $500 scholarship.

State "Homemakers of Tomorrow" and their faculty advisors will receive an expense paid tour to New York City, Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C., from April 8-13.

At the end of the trip, the All-American "Homemaker of Tomorrow" will be announced. The winner will receive a scholarship worth $5,000.

PTA Slates Sports Night

Tonight is "Sports Night" for the Morrisville P.T.A. The meeting is usually on a Tuesday night, but basketball games interfered, it was reported.

President George Hunger will conduct a brief business meeting in the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. The rest of the program, arranged by Vice-President Vernon Ferguson, will be in the gymnasium.

The boys and girls' gym clubs of the junior and senior high school will demonstrate gymnastic feats and contests of strength and skill, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Cavanaugh and Mr. Frank Zurlo. One of the features will be a combination of trick flips and vaulting, using a springboard and long-horse.

Refreshments will be provided for all by the room mothers of the Manor Park Elementary School, with Mrs. William R. Gretton and Mrs. E. C. Ludwig as hostesses.

Enrollment Still Open In 34 Adult Courses

It's still not too late to register for courses in the Pennsbury Adult School, which begins tonight at Medill Bair High School, Fairless Hills.

Registration will be held tonight from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. It has been announced. Cost of each of the 34 courses is $10, according to James Douglas, director of the program. Husbands and wives, however, may take a course together for only $18.

the semi-annual circuit assembly being held at the Broad and Diamond Street Armory, Philadelphia, on February 3-5," he said.

Friday evening's sessions will begin at 6:45 p.m. and the theme of the assembly, "Be Taught by Jehovah," will be discussed at 7 p.m. by District Supervisor Bruce E. Giffin. Following this, a model ministry school will be conducted.

Brief calls on the residents of the local area, to inform them of the three-day conference, will be made Saturday morning.

At 1:30 in the afternoon, newly associated individuals, who through Bible study and ministerial work have indicated their dedication and baptism, and then leave to symbolize their ordination by water immersion in the Y.M.C.A. pool at 1720 Christian Street, Philadelphia.

While the public is invited to all of the talks and discussions, their special attention is directed to being present at the 3 p.m. Bible talk to be given Sunday afternoon by Giffin on the question, "Is God Interested in the Affairs of Men," it was announced.

Dallison extended a welcome to all to gather for each or any day of the assembly.

As with all local and earth-wide meetings, no collection plate is ever passed, it was stated.

Car Crash Injures Two

Two 16-year-olds were reported in good condition this morning in Mercer County Hospital, Trenton, after they suffered serious injuries when their car struck a tree on Big Oak Road, Lower Makefield Township, last night.

The driver, Irvine Hethington, Jr., 19 Leisure Lane, Levittown, sustained rib fractures and head injury and his companion, Jayne Leader, 265 Cardiff Road, Fairless Hills, suffered a broken right leg, head injuries, and lacerations, in the collision.

Lower Makefield police reported that Hethington and Miss Leader were proceeding west after leaving the Pennsbury High School canteen when the accident occurred.

School Official Forsees Enrollment Jump Of 450

The Pennsbury School District is expecting an increase of about 450 students next semester, according to Dr. Charles Muschell, school district superintendent.

Dr. Muschell said the projected enrollment will bring the total to 9,950. During the current year, enrollment is about 9,300, he reported.

Keeping pace with current expansion is a problem, Dr. Muschell declared, but it is being successfully dealt with, "very effectively by intelligent, conscientious planning."

He said studies are being developed to anticipate future needs with special emphasis given to secondary schools where the most critical needs will occur in the next few years.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.
